Masterpiece: Downton Abbey Season 5
Sundays, starting January 4 at 9pm on WOSU TV

details on pages 3 & 8

Next Avenue CBus

A new year to some in our audience means considering a new life path. At WOSU Public Media, we’re experimenting with a project called Next Avenue focused on those reaching the traditional retirement age and considering what’s next. One of our volunteer leaders in this project calls this segment of life our “3rd/3rd.”

Several years ago, Twin Cities Public TV in Minnesota created a national website called Next Avenue, and WOSU became an early partner in the project. Over the past year, WOSU decided to localize this national site with a team of dedicated volunteers. This led to a local blogging site called Next Avenue CBus. Headlines like “Great Hopes and High Expectations” and “Deciding Not to Act Your Age” lead you to stories you’ll find helpful and inspirational.

The blogging led to an event strategy that has been a remarkable success. In July, we hosted our first Next Avenue CBus public forum at the WOSU@COSI studios, and more than 150 people came to listen and question a panel of wise veterans of life including legendary Ohio politician Jo Ann Davidson, still going strong at 87.

The second event in November was a sold-out workshop by our lead volunteers Jan Allen and John Schuster focused on how to transform the challenges and myths of this time in your life.

We all know America is in the process of a huge change as those of us in our 50s and beyond live longer than any previous generation. Capturing what this new life stage means to central Ohioans is part of our plan for Next Avenue CBus. Look for more workshops and events very soon!

Songs at the Center

Late-night local music

Songs at the Center is a new, late-night, local music show that premieres this month on WOSU TV. The program features a small group of singer-songwriters performing “in the round,” sharing the stage with an audience. This weekly, half-hour show spotlights the finest artists in the region and nation. Taped at the Peggy R. McConnell Arts Center of Worthington, it will also include artist interviews and segments on the area’s songwriting scene.

Songs at the Center is co-created and hosted by Eric Gnezda, a local songwriter, journalist and regular performer at Nashville’s Bluebird Café. “The singer-songwriter genre requires an engaged audience,” Gnezda says. “By putting the audience onstage with the performers, we’re inviting our viewers to be part of the unique intimacy that is shared between songwriters and listeners.”

Among the featured performers are Jared Mahone, Happy Chichester, Kerrville New Folk Festival winner RJ Cowdery, and Americana artist Hannah Aldridge.

Songs at the Center premieres Friday, January 9 at 10:30pm, following Great Performances: American Voices with Renée Fleming, then begins its weekly slot Sunday, January 11, at 12:30am, following Austin City Limits.

Watch full episodes and enjoy late-night music, anytime, with the WOSU Public Media Mobile App.

This Season, Every Secret Has a Price.

Downton Abbey Season 5 premieres Sunday, January 4 at 9pm on WOSU TV

As Downton Abbey Season Five begins, a working-class prime minister is elected and old attitudes start to change. But don’t let this mundane move in the political landscape fool you into thinking that Downton Abbey is the setting for commonplace activities. In this new season, Lady Mary’s love for a new suitor is tested, Bates faces a trial, and the police find a few inhabitants of the majestic English country estate to be suspects in an unexplained death.

Oh, the drama and intrigue! Season 5 of this Emmy® and Golden Globe® award-winning hit drama also welcomes some new cast members. Richard E. Grant (Girls, Gosford Park, Doctor Who) is joining the cast as Simon Bricker, who visits Downton Abbey as a guest of the Granthams. Anna Chancellor (The Hour, Four Weddings and a Funeral) joins in a guest role, playing Lady Anstruther, and Rade Sherbedgia (Eyes Wide Shut, 24) plays a Russian refugee. Returning guest cast member Dame Harriet Walter will reprise her role as Lady Shackleton, along with Peter Egan, returning as Lord Flintshire. And, the beloved ensemble returns as well.

Created and written by Julian Fellowes, Downton Abbey Season Five is a Carnival Films and MASTERPIECE coproduction. The February finale of Season Four last year captured an average audience of 8.5 million viewers.* Don’t miss your chance to be a part of this entertaining English import: Nine episodes filled with passion, lies, love and intrigue air on WOSU TV every Sunday night, starting with the broadcast premiere on Sunday, January 4 at 9pm.

NPR and WOSU Radio lost one of its signature voices, and signature laughs, this fall with the death of Tom Magliozzi. Tom and his brother Ray, better known as “Click and Clack,” hosted Car Talk on NPR for 37 years.

Car Talk is a car show in name only—it’s a comedy show about our relationships with each other and our machines. The relationship between Tom and Ray made the show a hit. At the root of their success was their ability to not take life and themselves too seriously. Even when Tom lost his struggle with Alzheimer’s disease, he could not escape Ray’s jabs. “Turns out he wasn’t kidding,” said Ray. “He really couldn’t remember last week’s puzzler.”

Tom Magliozzi was born in 1937 in his “fair city” of Cambridge, MA. His occasional on-air cluelessness was an act. The first in his family to attend college, Tom earned a chemical engineering degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He became a mechanic by near-accident. Narrowly missing another car while commuting to a research consulting job, he walked into his boss’ office and quit. After trying several other professions including Harvard Square bum, Tom eventually settled on auto repair. That led to Boston’s local public radio station, WBUR, to book him on an auto-repair panel show. Tom stole the show—he was the only one to show up.

The rest is history. WBUR invited him back. Tom brought along Ray. NPR picked up the program ten years later. Soon Car Talk was must-listen-to-radio for a weekly audience of four million people.

We who work in public radio are eternally grateful for Tom and Ray. Car Talk’s longtime producer Doug Berman said it best. “He and his brother changed public broadcasting forever. Before Car Talk, NPR was formal, polite, cautious…even stiff,” Berman reflected. “By being entirely themselves, without pretense, Tom and Ray single-handedly changed that and showed that real people are far more interesting than canned radio announcers.”

Tom may be gone, but his voice lives. Car Talk remains one of the most popular programs on 89.7 NPR News. So as you continue to enjoy The Best of Car Talk Saturday and Sunday mornings, please drive like Ray’s brother who once said, “I like to drive with the windows open. I mean, before you know it, you’re going to spend plenty of time sealed up in a box anyway, right?”

by MICHAEL THOMPSON, 89.7 NPR News Programming Director

(Above) Ray and Tom Magliozzi became famous as “Click and Clack, the Tappet Brothers” on the NPR show Car Talk. They bantered, told jokes and sometimes even gave pretty good advice to listeners with car troubles.

The American Sound

Saturdays at 6pm & Tuesdays at 7pm with Jennifer Hambrick

In January on The American Sound, we’ll ring in the New Year with Franz Waxman’s Auld Lang Syne Variations, we’ll commemorate Alaska’s statehood day with a work inspired by the Alaska Gold Rush, and Carter Pann’s Slalom will bring out the snow bunny in all of us. And as we enter hibernation mode, some unusual musical gems will keep us company—a blues by Morton Gould, a jubilant concerto movement by Stephen Paulus and a beautiful lullaby by John Corigliano.

Fretworks

Saturdays & Wednesdays at 7pm with John Rittmeyer

This month’s features include a new recording by guitarist Jason Vieaux, a Grand Sonata for flute and guitar by Mauro Giuliani and a guitar trio arrangement of the Children’s Corner Suite by Debussy. We’ll hear selections from Bach’s Goldberg Variations and Manuel Ponce’s Concerto of the South performed by Sharon Isbin. Another guitar concerto by Castelnuovo-Tedesco with Nicola Hall joins the lineup and, for Franz Schubert’s birthday on the 31st, his Arpeggione Sonata with guitarist John Williams and the Australian Chamber Orchestra.
