Poldark Season 2 on Masterpiece
Starts Sunday, September 25 at 8pm on WOSU TV
For Downton fans, Labor Day weekend will be pure joy. Starting at 9 pm on Friday, September 2nd, WOSU TV will air all six seasons of Downton Abbey consecutively with shows airing day and night and concluding at midnight on September 5th, Labor Day evening. You may want to consider setting your DVR! Downton Abbey was the most popular series in Masterpiece’s 45-year history and one of the most-watched dramas on American television, and continues to be incredibly popular even though the series concluded earlier this year.

I can vouch for that popularity having just returned from hosting, with my wife, a group of 30 Downton fans who were part of the Ohio State Alumni Tour to the Cotswolds. The tour concluded with a day at Highclere Castle and the town of Bampton, where Lady Mary’s marriage and other key scenes were filmed. The sun was shining as we arrived at Highclere, home of Lord and Lady Carnarvon and their family since the 17th century. The guide said the revenue from the filming may have saved the castle, which requires a great deal of maintenance and upkeep. Our group toured the castle and picnicked on the grounds, before posing for one last picture.

So settle in for a binge-worthy Labor Day weekend marathon. This round-the-clock celebration features every enthralling moment of the unforgettable series. Savor all the romance, intrigue, heartbreak and happiness Downton provides.

Sunday mornings were made for radio.

Two new nationally acclaimed programs join the weekend lineup on 89.7 NPR News: The New Yorker Radio Hour at 10am and Freakonomics Radio at 11am.

The New Yorker Radio Hour is the program you will look forward to curling up with every weekend. David Remnick, the editor of The New Yorker, is joined by the magazine’s award-winning writers in a weekly hour of radio that will both delight and inform. The New Yorker Radio Hour features a mix of profiles, storytelling, and insightful conversations about the issues that matter plus an occasional blast of comic genius from the magazine’s legendary “Shouts and Murmurs” page.

The New Yorker has set a standard in literary journalism for generations, and The New Yorker Radio Hour gives it a voice on public radio for the first time.

Freakonomics Radio ferrets out connections between seemingly unrelated things. The program explores the riddles of everyday life and the weird wrinkles of human nature—from cheating and crime to parenting and sports—using the tools of economics to explore real-world behavior.

Host Stephen J. Dubner discovers the hidden side of everything in interviews with Nobel laureates and provocateurs, social scientists and entrepreneurs—and with his Freakonomics co-author Steve Levitt.

This Sunday, set the alarm for 89.7 NPR News starting at 10am.

Amadeus Deli

Listen to the Amadeus Deli Fridays at noon during September, when a special series of The Mozart Minute explores the dramatic romance between Mozart and his future wife, Constanze Weber.

Opera and More

Also, Opera and More (1 pm Saturdays) commemorates the 400th anniversary of the death of William Shakespeare, by presenting operas based on his works.

The American Sound

The American Sound (6 pm Saturdays and 7 pm Tuesdays) takes a final summer road trip with Michael Daugherty’s Route 66 for Orchestra, heads to Miami for Mojitos and Stilettos by Michael Torke and rings in autumn with Dan Locklair’s Symphony of Seasons.
