WOSU’s Growing Podcasts

WOSU is excited to be creating content that allows audiences to tap into our local programming on their time and allows our producers to stretch their talents beyond the usual broadcast model. That is what podcasting is all about. Over half of Americans have listened to at least one podcast and a research firm found over 750,000 podcast shows and over 30 million episodes to choose from! We’re highlighting two professionally produced new Central Ohio podcasts from WOSU that you’ll want to check out.

StoryCorps COLUMBUS

We have a new broadcast and podcast series called StoryCorps COLUMBUS. We’re pulling from the interviews captured this summer in Columbus by the national StoryCorps team to create a series about life, love and our community. Starting in October, listen to StoryCorps COLUMBUS in the WOSU mobile app or wherever you get your podcasts. The stories can also be heard on 89.7 NPR News Thursday afternoons during All Things Considered and again Saturday mornings during Weekend Edition Saturday.

Rivet

WOSU premieres Rivet Podcast, Season 2 on October 1. Learn how to make what you love doing into your career — through pathways outside of a four-year degree. On this season of Rivet, hear the stories of students discovering how their interests translate to jobs ... without college. Listen in as we highlight opportunities for the next generation of workers in the state’s top industries such as agriculture, insurance and health care. Tap into the wealth of information on the American Graduate: Getting to Work website at wosu.org/classroom/american-graduate. This project was supported through a grant by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Both podcasts, only from WOSU Public Media, are available at wosu.org, in the WOSU mobile app or wherever you get your podcasts.

Stay tuned for more!
Happy Hour Thursdays 8pm on WOSU TV

New seasons of local favorites premiere October 3

Share a toast with us Thursday nights at 8pm as we showcase the people and places that make Central Ohio a great place to live. Starting October 3, it’s a whole new hour of inspiring local programming that brings the ‘happy’ back into television viewing.

BROAD & HIGH

Season 7 Premiere: Thursday, October 3 | 8pm | WOSU TV

Coming this season: From making macramé cool again to the installation of a new sculpture by pop artist Roy Lichtenstein, season 7 of Broad & High celebrates art by going behind-the-scenes in artists’ studios, galleries and museums in Central Ohio. Find out how classical musicians find a new audience in local pubs, get a bird’s eye view of the new murals gracing the Graduate Hotel in the Short North and meet award-winning filmmaker Julia Reichert whose latest documentary, American Factory, was just released on Netflix.

Broad & High is made possible through the support of the Greater Columbus Arts Council with contributing sponsors PNC and the Bill and Mae McCorkle Foundation.

COLUMBUS NEIGHBORHOODS

Season 6 Premiere: Thursday, October 3 | 8:30pm | WOSU TV

Coming this season: History lives in stories, but also in food and everyday artifacts. Find out how the Livingston Seed Company near Reynoldsburg made tomatoes America’s favorite kitchen staple. Architectural Historian Jeff Darbee visits the American Whistle Factory and the Columbus Washboard Company, plus producer George Levert visits locally owned shops with legendary food like Waldo’s G&R Tavern, home of the famous Fried Bologna sandwich.

The 2019-2020 season of Columbus Neighborhoods is made possible through the support of the American Electric Power Foundation, OhioHealth and Bailey Cavalieri.

WOSU Public Media producers from Broad & High and Columbus Neighborhoods brought home a record number of Emmy Awards this year. While those sparkly statues dazzle every corner of working space here at WOSU, we’ve been working all summer long on even more stories to share with you.

If you’re a Columbus Neighborhoods fan, set your DVR a half hour earlier at 8pm and check out Broad & High. Same fun. All about art. 100% delightful.

Feel like turning happy hour into a happy binge?

Catch up on all the past episodes of Broad & High and Columbus Neighborhoods on WOSU Passport, on WOSU’s video portal at video.wosu.org, the WOSU app or the PBS On-Demand channels on Roku, Apple TV and Amazon Fire TV.

What Separates 89.7 NPR News?

You have many choices when it comes to news, and with more and more cars coming equipped with internet connected dashboards, your choices will increase. So here are five things that separate 89.7 NPR News from others.

1. Best Signal
   It’s something often taken for granted, but our engineers spend their days and nights making sure listeners get the clearest, best sounding audio possible.

2. Best Radio News Staff in Ohio – According to the Society for Professional Journalists
   Year after year, judges from around the country give WOSU journalists first place awards for investigative and enterprise reporting.

3. Most Comprehensive Radio News Coverage
   Every day 89.7 NPR News produces thoughtful, in-depth stories covering the issues most important to Central Ohio.

4. Thoughtful Central Ohio Talk
   All Sides with Ann Fisher is the only Central Ohio radio interview program. Each weekday from 10am to noon Ann and her guests offer unbiased insight into the day’s news and information to quench your insatiable thirst for knowledge.

5. Vital Information in One Place
   You’re busy – you don’t have time to sample outlets for trusted news. Choosing 89.7 NPR News gives you all the information you need – international, national and Central Ohio news, frequent weather updates and traffic reports, and the score to last night’s game.

With all your choices, make the decision easy. Tune to 89.7, download the WOSU app, ask your smart speaker to “Play WOSU.”

Changes at Classical 101

You may have noticed by now, some changes are afoot at Classical 101. Longtime host Christopher Purdy has stepped into morning drivetime, bringing his deep knowledge and signature wit to Central Ohio's early morning classical audience. Christopher's love for music is obvious to listeners, and he is always in demand around the community as a speaker for gatherings large and small.

Many concert-goers credit Purdy with adding to their appreciation of the music presented by the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, but his storytelling is also prized by many performing arts organizations as well as smaller groups, from local libraries to student groups. Opera lovers may also remember Christopher from his 20 years of appearances as a quiz panelist on the Metropolitan Opera radio broadcasts, where his incredible memory and vast knowledge of opera stood him in good stead.

Purdy will continue to host Columbus Symphony Orchestra radio broadcasts, Essential Classics, Front Row Center, and two series of shows highlighting local classical performances — Music in Mid Ohio and Concerts at Ohio State. With Christopher's new morning hosting duties, the Friday afternoon Classical 101 By Request will go on hiatus. Sunday night's Musica Sacra will be continuing with a new host later this fall.

CHECK OUT CHRISTOPHER'S SHOW DURING YOUR MORNING COMMUTE, WEEKDAYS FROM 7-10AM.

October Highlights

This month on The American Sound, Fred Hersch's Brazilian-tinged Chorinho, Barber's gorgeous Serenade for Strings, and a new recording by the Philadelphia-based chorus The Crossing. Also, Columbus musicians performing Stephen Main's Columbus Triptych.

Saturdays at 6pm and Tuesdays at 7pm.

Sunday Baroque marks World Teachers' Day with some baroque-era musicians who were also influential teachers.

Sunday, October 6 from 6-10am.

Exploring Music with Bill McGlaughlin spends a week with composers' first symphonies, then begins traversing the pastoral musical landscapes of the British Isles on October 14. October 21 kicks off a week of Ninth Symphonies ... is there really a curse attached? And of course, the last week of October is looking towards Halloween with “Demons, Spooks and Other Things That Go Bump in the Night.” Weeknights at 6pm.
