Important information about Airfare

Throughout 2022, WOSU Public Media celebrated its centennial of service. From being the first radio station on-air in Columbus in 1922 to today serving more than 2 million Central Ohioans through radio, TV, digital, education and in-person engagement, the roots of today’s public media system run strong through WOSU. And that’s in large part thanks to you, our loyal and valued member base whose support ensures we continue to provide our mission-driven programming.

One of WOSU’s values is intentional innovation, and we live that value in service to the community we serve. Over the last 100 years, WOSU has changed as media itself has changed. From the earliest days of wireless Morse code, to being one of the few radio broadcasts airing diverse voices in the 20’s, to helping hundreds of thousands of students access education via radio during the Great Depression.

More recently, WOSU was among the first stations to switch to HD broadcasts, to launch a website, to debut a mobile app. For the many of you who have had the opportunity to visit WOSU’s new headquarters, you have seen firsthand the expanded newsroom, state-of-the-art TV studios and production suites, and the variety of in-person events, performances and forums we are offering in our community studio.

As we turn the page to a new calendar year and enter our second century of service, it’s time to reflect on how we continue to best serve you and the Central Ohio community.

One of the decisions we have made together as WOSU leadership is to discontinue publishing the print Airfare programming guide. The final printed issue will be published in May 2023. We hope we can count on you to understand that we very carefully considered many factors – key among them the increasing costs of print production and the uncontrollable delays that often occur with mail delivery – and have determined that our resources are better used serving you in other ways.

The great news is that you can easily access the most accurate program schedules for WOSU’s TV and radio stations any time at wosu.org and on the WOSU mobile app. If you have any questions or need help locating these schedules online, you can reach out to our membership team at members@wosu.org.

As we always have, WOSU is changing, growing, and innovating. Thank you for understanding and for your continued support.

Things We’re Watching in 2023

Abortion Restrictions
The 2022 Dobbs decision gave states the right to restrict or outright ban abortion which immediately allowed Ohio to activate one of the nation’s most restrictive laws – banning abortions after fetal activity is detected with exceptions only for the life of the mother. A Hamilton County judge has ruled the so-called ‘heartbeat law’ violates the state constitution, and the law is on hold – pending a final appeals court ruling, likely from the Ohio Supreme Court. Some lawmakers want to ban abortion starting at conception. Abortion rights supporters may seek to codify the Roe vs. Wade standard through a ballot measure. No doubt, one of the most controversial issues of 2022, will remain so in 2023.

The Economy
How Central Ohioans earn a living and spend their earnings will be a major story in the next year. The good news is lots of Columbus area residents have jobs and their wages have risen. The bad news is inflation and interest rates remain high – hurting consumers’ ability to afford groceries, homes, and cars. The Columbus area continues to suffer from a severe housing shortage which has kept home prices and rents too high for many to afford.

Legislative Redistricting
When Ohioans chose state reps. and senators and members of congress in 2022, they did so using illegally drawn legislative districts. The Ohio Supreme Court ruled the districts unconstitutional several times, but a federal court decision forced voters to use a version of the maps. Lawmakers are expected to take up the issue again, but a new supreme court chief justice may give Republicans the majority they need to keep the maps close to where they stand. Advocates for gerrymandering reform continue to press their case and may take the fight to the ballot. Supporters of other systems like ranked-choice voting may also enter the debate.

The WOSU News Team stands ready to cover these stories and many more in 2023.
Welcoming the New Year

What better way to ring in the new year than with the perennial favorite “New Year’s Day from Vienna?” Maestro Franz Welser-Möst returns to conduct this year’s New Year’s concert, having previously led the holiday favorite in 2011 and 2013. It’s a program of popular waltzes, polkas and other dances by the Strauss family and others. Tune in Sunday, January 1 at 11 am.

Concerts at Ohio State

A new year means a new series of concerts from the OSU School of Music. Host Christopher Purdy will be joined by co-host Michael Ibrahim, the new director of the School of Music.

Be listening Sundays at 1 in January to enjoy performances by young musicians and esteemed faculty…and maybe even TBDBITL.

The Metropolitan Opera

It’s an exciting month for the Met, with two new productions. Sandra Radvanovsky sings the title role in the Met premiere of a new production of Cherubini’s Medea on January 7. That’s followed on January 14 by a new production of Giordano’s Fedora featuring soprano Sonya Yoncheva.

It’s Donizetti’s ever-popular L’Elisir d’Amore on January 21 and Poulenc’s moving Dialogues des Carmélites on January 28.

Symphony Showcase

Aaron Copland said, “Mozart tapped the source from which all music flows, expressing himself with a spontaneity and refinement and breathtaking rightness.” This month Classical 101’s Symphony Showcase features concertos and symphonies by Mozart including his popular last four symphonies. Join host Kent Teeters for Symphony Showcase Sundays at 6pm and Thursdays at 7.

The American Sound

During the icy evenings of January, you can warm up with Amy Beach’s fiery “Gaelic” Symphony, Gershwin’s sizzling Catfish Row: Symphonic Suite and William Grant Still’s “Afro-American” Symphony. Join host Jennifer Hambrick Saturdays at 6pm and Tuesdays at 7pm on Classical 101.
